THE INVINCIBLE DEMOCRACY.

IT WAS A HARD FIGHT AND A GREAT VICTORY.

Largest Vote Polled in the History of Greensboro—Practically all Democratic Votes White.

The fight has been waged and a victory won, though it was no child's play. From "early morn till dewey eve" the battle was on, and so close was the contest that no man could, with absolute certainty, name the winning ticket until the vote had been counted.

While the Democratic majorities are not great, when everything is taken into consideration, the victory is a great one. The following is an analysis of the vote.

Total number of votes cast	1,336
Total number of white votes	1,004
Total number of colored votes	332
White votes cast for Taylor	686
Colored votes cast for Taylor	20
White votes cast for Scott	330
Colored votes cast for Scott	312

The following is the vote in detail:

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Z. V. Taylor	686
First Ward—
B. H. Merrimon	696
T. D. Sherwoood	712
Second Ward—
J. W. Scott	744
G. W. Denny	699
Third Ward—
H. J. Elam	1,314
W. T. Sergeant	717
Fourth Ward—
Neil Ellington	740
J. Y. Joyner	712
Fith Ward—
William Love	706
R. M. Philips	689
Sixth Ward—
J. S. Hunter	705
S. H. Boyd	697

CITIZENS' TICKET.

L. M. Scott	642
First Ward—
J. H. Walsh	613
T. C. McCorkle	605
Second Ward—
S. B. Adams	608
J. E. Catlin	605
Third Ward—
M. C. Stewart	627
H. J. Elam
Fourth Ward—
J. A. Barringer	629
J. H. Rankin	590
Fifth Ward—
E. L Armentrout	614
John Y. Smith	604
Sixth Ward—
J. H. Phipps	622
R. A. Gilmer	640

It will be observed from the above that, with the exception of Mr. H. J. Elam, whose name was on both tickets, Mr. J. W. Scott lead the Democratic ticket. The Citizen's ticket was lead by Mr. R A. Gilmer, of the Sixth Ward.

The Board of Aldermen will meet this evening at 8 o'clock, at which time the new board will be sworn in and effect an organization.

There was some talk on the streets today that the election would be contested on some technicality, but there is probably no foundation for the report, for the reason that there is no ground for a contest.

The talk was caused by a mistake in the announcement of the vote at the close of the polls, which was then given as 1,376. It was ascertained by actual count to be 1336. If 1,376 votes had been cast, and and the additional 40 votes had been for Scott, Taylor would still have had a majority of 4.

Those who were dissatisfied today went with the pollholders over the books and count, after which they expressed themselves as satisfied with the count.

INVITES TOON AND ENGLISH.

Supt. Mebane Wants Them to Attend Teachers' Assembly.

Raleigh Times-Visitor.

Superintendent of Public Instruction C. H. Mebane spent Sunday and part of today in the city, leaving this afternoon for Burlington and the west, where he will attend educational meetings. Mr. Mebane is untiring in his devotion to the public school interests of the State and, be it said to his everlasting credit, has conducted the office without regard to politics and kept the public schools of the State, in so far as he was able, on a higher plane than any political consideration, and hence he commands the respect of all classes interested in educational work. He has never made a political speech in his life.

Mr. Mebane spoke this morning of the Teachers' Assembly, which will be held at Morehead next month. He is deeply interested now in the Assembly work and expects the next Assembly to be a great success.

In discussing the Assembly plans today Mr. Mebane remarked:

"I have extended an urgent invitation to General Toon and Prof. N. C. English, the candidates for Superintendent of Public Instruction, to attend the Teachers' Assembly at Morehead in June and also to visit with me as many as possible of the county institutes for the teachers which will be held all over North Carolina during July and August."

Mr. Mebane thinks that this commingling and becoming acquainted with the public school teachers of North Carolina would be of great assistance to whoever shall be elected his successor and placed at the head of the great school interests of North Carolina, which are now of paramount importance to the State, and which are so close to Mr. Mebane's heart.

It is believed that General Toon and Prof. English will accept this invitation of Superintendent Mebane and not only visit the Assembly and speak to the teachers there, but appear among the country teachers at the institutes and address them along purely educational lines, thus helping in this great educational work.

PRESIDENT BAPTIST UNIVERSITY.

Rev. J. E. White Was Yesterday Elected to the Position.

News and Observer.

On April 11th President Blasingame, of the Baptist Female University, this city, resigned; his resignation to take effect on June 17th.

Yesterday afternoon the trustees met and elected as his successor Rev. Jno. E. White, secretary of the Baptist State Mission Board.

No other business was transacted.

The trustees met at 4 o'clock in the Baptist Mission rooms on Fayetteville street. The following members of the board were present: W. N. Jones, president; N. B. Broughton, secretary; W. L. Poteat, J. B. Brewer, W. J. Hicks, J. D. Boushall, J. W. Bailey, S. W. Brewer, A. A. Marshall, John E. Ray, J. N. Holding and Carey J. Hunter.

Mr. White asked for ten days in which to consider acceptance. This was granted.

It is pretty certain, however that he will accept, as it was officially stated last night that a meeting of the State Mission Board would be held at Wake Forest College on Tuesday, May the 29th, to elect his successor as secretary.

Mr. White was born in Clayton, December 19th, 1868 His father Rev. J. M. White, is a well known minister of the gospel, and his grandfather, Rev. John F. Ellington, was a preacher of great usefulness in his day.

GREAT CHINESE FUNERAL.

Burial of a Celestial High Priest in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, May 7.—Hi Sing, High Priest, of the Chinese Masonic Order of this country, Judge of Chinatown, and the Celestial who disputed with Lee Toy for the supremacy in the councils of the Race street colony, was honored with an elaborate, even gorgeous, funeral today.

The distinguished priest and arbitrator, who spoke nine languages and added to his income by loaning money to his countrymen at a high rate of interest, was bourne to Philadelphia cemetery, Twenty-first street and Possyunk avenue, in an ornate hearse drawn by six coal black horses. Fully one hundred carriages followed the hearse.

Every chinaman within the radius of two hundred miles who amounts to anything attended the funeral.

Sing's funeral eclipsed any of the Chinese burials that this city has ever witnessed, for Sing was the most distinguished Chinaman in Philadelphia, and, as regards talents and social standing, was the peer of any Chinaman in the country. Sing died at the age of fifty-nine years.

RUSSELL FLAYS THE DUKE.

SAYS HE IS TRYING TO STEAL CRAWFORD'S SEAT

Pearson Receives Most Terrible Castigation Ever Given by One Member of a Party to Another.

Governor Russell's expected explosion because the Republican convention failed to endorse him, came yesterday. In an interview he said:

"Pearson's attempt to steal the ninth district does not hurt his reputation. It only sustains it. But the late Republican convention in permitting Pearson to smuggle through a resolution commending himself and contest, but for the fact, perhaps that some of the convention did not know that it was in the platform, would have disgraced the Republican party of North Carolina. Here we are in North Carolina charging truthfully that the Democrats are sweeping things by force and fraud, that they have put upon us an election law that is meaner than the Goebel deviltry. The State convention meets. It appoints a committee on resolutions and platforms. Pearson schemes to get himself at the head of the committee. He fixes the resolutions—especially the one which extols himself and condones his contemplated larceny. And then what a sight for the gods! A platform denouncing frauds and demanding honesty—this platform prepared and reported and read (with a sickly effort toward the dramatic) by a man who has been, is now and was at that moment making the supreme effort of his life to disfranchise by bold fraud all the voters of the city of Asheville and to steal a seat in Congress by methods substantially as lawless and desperate as those which are known of all men to prevail in the non-suffrage States."

"But, Governor, it was said, Pearson expects to make it a party vote on the ground that he is a straight Republican."

"Oh yes, of course. Party politics are coming to that, are they? Stand up for any villiany, no matter what, if they call it a party matter. Law, right, honesty, decency, equity, justice—all to be ditched to put in a contestant because he promises to be a Republican. When did this man get to be a Republican? Those of the old guard who stood by the party in the days of its defeat and weakness when not one of us believed that we could live to see it in power have not forgotten this man's career. His father was a Whig, a Union man, an intrepid judge in the days of secession and war, and a Republican. The present Pearson, because of his father's merits, got office and remained a Republican as long as his father lived and office lasted. The office failed, the father died, the Republican party got beat and Pearson turned Democrat. Like other apostates, he tried to wipe away the past by extreme servility to the present. He joined in close communion with the politicians who hated his father, pursued him with relentless rancor and hounded him to his grave. But he did not get his expected pay from the Democrats. They were strong enough not to need him and proud enough not to want him. Then he began to plot against them and got into Congress by running as an independent. After his election to Congress he denied that he was a Republican, saying he carried his politics under his hat. When he became satisfied that the Republicans were strong enough to win, he got out from under his hat and went to sneering at the men who through all the years of defeat, without the hope of reward, had followed the party flag.

The truth is he was fairly beaten. His real complaint is that he didn't get votes enough. The plain men of the mountains have had enough of him. They know that he has nothing in common with them—no sympathy with their struggles, their labors or their wants. They don't care to be represented by a man who, as they know, would not be willing to sacrifice the mint in their morning julip to save them and theirs from the pangs of the damned."

"Do other Republicans, Governor, think about Pearson as you do?"

"Yes, Col. Lusk and Mr. Smathers think about his contest just as I do. They say that Crawford ought to want Pearson to be seated because it means a sweep for Crawford next November. They think it worse than that. It means the loss to us of many seats in the Legislature. What is the use of our making the great issue as to honesty in elections if our own party should perpetrate such a fraud as this. Why, just think of it! The whole vote of the city of Asheville is to be flung in the ditch because a colored man was arrested for perjury committed during the contest, long after the election. Why not throw out the whole vote of Buncombe county; and, as to that, why not all the Democratic votes in the district? Every voter in the precincts of South Waynesville is to be disfranchised on the excuse that those of them who were newly registered were registered three or four hundred feet from the spot where polls were held, everybody having a fair chance to register and nobody losing his vote and nobody defrauded or prejudiced by the failure to have the books on the very spot where the polls were held. And as for the great body of those registered in previous years, no irregularity even charged. And with this sort of a record upon us, we are to go around ranting about Democratic fraud."

INDEPENDENTS WIN.

High Point's Election a Hard Fought Affair.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

High Point, N. C., May 5.—The election yesterday was one of the hardest fought battles that has ever been waged in a municipal contest here. There were two tickets in the field and both sides were busy as bees, from the opening to the closing of the polls. What caused so much interest to be manifested in the election was the getting out of a ticket by the labor element. But the winning ticket yesterday was the one nominated Friday—the Business Men's ticket, and is as follows, with the vote each man received:

Mayor—Joseph J. Cox, 363. Aldermen.—First ward.—Jonathan P. Redding, 359; Dennis H. Hall, 346. Second ward—Joseph W. Sechrest, 354; Joseph J. Welch, 351. Third ward—Leander Flagler, 665; Dennis Aldridge, 338. Fourth ward—James H Millis, 673; James R. Holt, 354. Millis and Flagler were on both tickets, consequently the large vote accorded them. The vote was close all around, with the exception of those on two tickets. Cox's majority over Wilson, for mayor, was 53, Wilson having received 310 votes.

The water-works question was voted down.

Mrs. Gray, an old lady living at Teagetown, a village two miles north of here, died Sunday night.

J. Emmett Shepard, of this place, won the medal in the oratorical contest at Guilford College Saturday night.

Mr. B. H. Finch, of Thomasville, was here yesterday.

Mr. J. L. Armfield, cashier of the Bank of Thomasville, spent Sunday in town with his brother.

Mr. Jacobs, of Charlotte, was here yesterday, and rented the vacant storeroom in the J. M. Sechrest building. He will open therein a first-class barber shop with white employes.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pickett died this morning.

A gentlemen from a nearby town "rung up" one of our citizens over the 'phone yesterday and told him that a man in his town was running for mayor, and that the fellow had nearly killed himself working for the office. But the funniest thing of all is that no one was running against this fellow, and he didn't know it until informed of the matter.

Geo. A. Matton, druggist, is putting in an electric fan at his soda water fountain.

State Deutal Society.

The twenty-sixth annual meeting of the North Carolina State Dental Society will be called to order tomorrow at the Acanemy of Music at 12 o'clock by the president, Dr. E. J. Tucker, of Roxboro.

Prayer by Rev. Egbert W. Smith, D. D., will follow.

Address of welcome will be delivered by Prof. T. A. Smoot, of Greensboro Female College.

Response by Dr. Norwood G. Carroll, of Raleigh. Roll call by the secretary, Dr. J. S. Spurgeon, of Hillsboro. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all local and and visiting dentists, and physicians, and the public generally to attend these services.

TUESDAY, MAY 8 1909.

NOW FOR PROGRESS.

It may not be out of place just here to reproduce the platform adopted by the Democratic Convention last Friday night, upon which the nominees were yesterday elected, and which must be their guiding chart in the administration of their office:

"1. We rejoice in the continued growth and prosperity of Greensboro and pledge our active and unremitting efforts to advance ist progress and development.

"2. We commend the faithful, efficient, economical and progressive administration of our city affairs, and appreciate the many delicate, difficult and important matters which have required and received so much of the time and attention of our mayor and aldermen.

"3. We favor such a wise economy in the expenditures of the city as is consistent with sound judgment and a broad progressive policy.

"4. We favor, as far as possible, municipal ownership of public utilities, such as a waterworks system and a lighting plant.

"5 We are heartily in favor of improving the streets, extending the sewer system, and making all the improvements voted by the people, with the greatest speed possible, consistent with safety."

It is well to recall just what the party is pledged to and what its servants were elected to do. In that platform of progress there is but one qualifying clause, and that is, "consistent with sound judgment and a broad progressive policy." There is only one way for Greensboro to go forward, and that is by the united effort of all its citizens. When we have our fusses and fights, and a ticket is elected on a platform of progress, we ought to all rally to its support. We believe that this board will carry out its platform, and we hope to see all citizens who are in favor of the great measures of progress advocated in that platform put their shoulders to the wheel and he'p the new officers to work for Greensboro's advancement, forgetting the things that are past and working for the future. Whatever may have been personal preferences, party preferences or other differences, they must all sink before the fact that the men elected are as good as could be found. No better board could have been elected. Now let us all join in and help them carry out the platform of progress.

THE ELECTION IS OVER.

The Telegram believes in burying the hatchet when the fight is over. The paper did in this instance what it will always do when a question concerning the city's interest is up—espouse the side which it believes right. While doing this we can very readily recognize the fact that there are sincere differences of opinion among men. In the election just passed the opposition to the Democratic organization seemed to us to be wrong so far as the Democrats in the movement were concerned. We thought those Democrats who were sincere made a great mistake in joining with the enemy, and we think so yet, but at the same time we have no disposition to keep up the fight. We want the Democrats who followed the movement to come on back where they belong, and hereafter fight out their differences in the party. There were men connected with this movement who, when they consider the subject a party matter, are as good Democrats as anybody. That they did not see this one in that light we can only regret, not upbraid, and we know that such Democrats will be found fighting for the amendment as valiantly as anybody. As for the Republican organization, it is always ready to unite with any opposition against the regular Democracy, and doubtless will continue to be as long as the lamp of life holds out to burn; as for the negro, his case will be carefully tried next August and a judgment rendered that will lay him on the shelf permanently.

So far as the Telegram is concerned the "incident is closed."

A good many things may be said of ex-Senator Ingalls, the prize fighting reporter, but no one can charge him with not having a style as breezy as the west wind. Writing in the New York Journal he says:

Socialism is the final refuge of those who have failed in the struggle for life. It is the prescription of those who are born tired. It means the survival of the unfit, and the inevitable result would be degeneration. It would deprive ambition of its incentive, industry of its stimulus, excellence of its supremacy, and character of its reward.

Individualism would lift all to the level of the highest. Socialism would drag all down to the level of the lowest. Individualism is progress and life. Socialism is stagnation and death.

We had never thought of socialism as the survival of the unfit, which is a reversal of nature's law, but isn't it that?

If President McKinley doesn't go to Charlotte in May, why shouldn't he visit the Battle Ground in July?

GOES TO TULANE.

Dr. Alderman Resigned His Old Position Yesterday.

The public has eagerly awaited the decision of President E. A. Alderman as to whether he would accept the presidency of Tulane University, of Louisiana, to which he was elected sometime ago. It came yesterday to the board of trustees as follows:

Chapel Hill, May 7, 1909.

To Hon. R. H. Battle, Secretary.

Dear Sir:—I beg to offer to the board of trustees my resignation as president of the University of North Carolina, to take effect on June 15, 1900. I take this step after patient study, in order that I may accept the presidency of Tulane University, of Louisiana, to which I was elected on April 5th, 1909. This decision has been reached in the belief that it is just to my professional life, and to wider opportunities for educational service that I make the change. I have tried very hard to do the right thing along large lines and to eliminate from the problem the common place and the sordid. If I have seemed to take undue time to act, it is because time has been needed to see with even partial vision the path to tread.

I have a firm belief that every man who has had this matter in mind at all will know something of the hurt of mind and heart through which I have passed and the conflict of duty and emotion in which I have struggled. It is the hardest thing I have yet had to do in my life. I do not need to say that my heart has been touched by the evidences of appreciation, all too generous and undeserved, from the people of the State whom I have labored for since manhood; from your honorable body, so helpful and just to me always; from the body of the alumni and from the faculty and students of the institution in whose service I have known the joy of striving. I count this appreciation the finest reward of a life of some toil and struggle for the upbuilding of my native State. With assurances of my personal esteem, I have the honor to remain,

Very sincerely yours,
EDWIN A. ALDERMAN.

A Bride's Clever Idea.

Out in a big apartment house on Columbia heights there dwells a young married woman who is as naive as the bride in the comic weeklies. The housekeepers who live in the same house with her have been somewhat annoyed of late by mice. The young woman met one of them in the hall the other day, and the conversation naturally turned on their common pests.

"The mice have been so bad lately," said the elder woman, "that I keep everything locked up and all my eatables in the boxes."

The younger woman's eyes sparkled with eagerness.

"My!" she said. "I wouldn't dare do that. I wouldn't want to run such a risk. I leave crackers and cheese lying about every night when I go to bed so that when the mice become hungry they'll find something to eat and not gnaw things. I'm always afraid they'll bite holes in my new tablecloths and my nice centerpieces if I don't leave the cheese right where they can find it easily. I feel perfectly safe when I know there's plenty for them to eat right where they can get at it."

There's nothing after all like having a clever idea like that now and then.—Washington Post.

Nicknames of British Regiments.

The grenadier guards were nicknamed "The Coalheavers" because they were at one time allowed to work in plain clothes at odd jobs for private employers. The Seventh foot were "The Elegant Extracts" because at one time all their officers "had been chosen from other corps." The Forty-sixth owed their name of "The Lacedemonians" to their colonel's stirring speech on the ancient Spartans. Like many other regiments, "The Gallant Fiftieth" received several nicknames—"The Blind Half Hundred," from their ophthalmic troubles in Egypt, and "The Dirty Half Hundred" because in their peninsular fights they wiped themselves with their black facings. The One Hundredth regiment are "The Old Hundred" and "The Centipedes." The Twenty-eighth were called "The Fore and Afts" because, standing back to back, they repelled a front and rear attack before Alexandria in 1801. The Cheshire regiment has been christened "The Lightning Conductors" because "in the Irish maneuvers of 1899 several men were struck by lightning during a night march."—London News.

The Ring-hals.

The ring-hal does not disdain an insect diet. Beetles, grasshoppers, locusts and termites are all readily devoured, as well as ticks and bots picked from the hides of cattle. I have sometimes amused myself by watching the bold yet cautious and gentle manner in which one of these ravens will approach a reclining ox and, after a preliminary course of soothing caresses, accompanied by a soft "cawing" note, insert his head into the ear and dexterously extract the ticks. These birds always seem to have a good understanding with the older and more experienced oxen, who will, at a hint from one of them, lie down and place themselves in the most favorable position for the extraction of their parasites.—Stark's Birds of South Africa.

An Invaluable Aid.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they have had, all they have now and all they expect to have.

He that worries himself with the dread of possible contingencies will never be at rest.—Johnson.

A PLEASURE AND A DUTY.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neigbors to tell about the wonderful cure affected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain' Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. A few doses of it affected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

THE PENALTY OF MUSIC.

Players Who Are Forced to Quit Because of Deafness.

"Few realize how many musicians are obliged to go out of the business on account of deafness," said an old musician to a reporter. "Only a few of the thousands of players in the country become famous. The great mass of them plod along day after day in the same old path. When one of us drops out, no one cares to inquire why, but many times the reason is deafness and nothing else.

"Loss of hearing is particularly the affliction of those who play brass instruments. A cornetist who has played in Kansas City orchestras for many years has stopped playing now because he is losing his faculty of hearing. He went out of the business before it was too late. Many of the old players hang to their instruments until the loudest strains of an orchestra or clamor of a band sounds to them like a mere hum. Then they are forced to stop. Their usefulness is gone.

"The musician's deafness is undoubtedly caused by the injurious effects of the constant vibration of musical notes upon the delicate machinery of the ear. A man who blows a cornet or a trombone or a horn of any kind for several hours will notice a queer buzzing in his ears. When the playing is kept up every day in the week and every week in the year for a long number of years, it's no wonder that deafness comes. Some musicians play without effort. Their skill is natural. They pour out music as free as breath. But the skill of others is acquired only by hard and constant labor. In addition to their regular playing in band or orchestra they must practice industriously several hours every day. And these are the ones who lose their hearing and drop out of sight unnoticed."—Kansas City Star.

HE GOT NO MONEY.

An Incident In the Boyhood Life of Louis XIII of France.

One day, when the dauphin, afterward Louis XIII, was 5 years old, the Duke of Sully came out to St. Germain well supplied from the treasury with pocket money for the dauphin, says Mrs. Lucy Crump in The Atlantic. The news of the superintendent's arrival set the whole household astir, eager for a share in the expected spoil. Mme. de Monglat hurried the dauphin into the great courtyard of the castle to receive Sully with as much honor as if he had been the king himself. To please the great man the little prince put his enfants d'honneur and other attendants through a drill with their toy arquebuses and swords.

At the end of the show M. de Sully gave the dauphin 50 crowns, which his mock soldiers seized out of his hands so quickly that he had scarce time even to feel them. At last but one piece remained, which he held fast hold of in spite of the efforts of Mme. de Monglat's tailor to get it from him. He—he—he's trying to take it from me!" shouted the child.

Mme. de Monglat took it, gathered together all the rest of the coins from the reluctant hands of their possessors and kept them all. The dauphin did not complain, but soon after he said, "But I, too, was a soldier, and I didn't get any money."

Herouard always maintained that a certain reluctance to both spend and give, which characterized Louis in later years, was the direct result of Mme. de Monglat's teaching and example.

A Warning to Borrowers.

A man who was too economical to take this paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance and, failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a four gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In the hurry she dropped a $7 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up 11 setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts.—Kansas City Journal.

Saving Trouble.

A provident plumber, on leaving his home for a holiday with his family, placed a placard just inside the hall door couched in the following language:

"To burglars or those intending to burgle: All my plated jewelry and other valuables are in the Safe Deposit company's vaults. The trunks, cupboards, etc., contain nothing but secondhand clothing and similar matter too bulky to remove, on which you would realize comparatively little. The keys are in the left hand top drawer of the sideboard—if you doubt my word. You will also find there a check to bearer for $5, which will remunerate you for the loss of time and disappointment. Please wipe your feet on the mat and don't spill any candle grease on the carpets."—Collier's Weekly.

Gentlemen at Odds.

"Huh!" snorted Mr. Sourdropp to Mr. Arguso. "Huh! If you knew half as much as you think you know, you'd know a half more than you do now."

"Is that so?" growled Mr. Arguso. "Well, if you only knew twice as much as you don't know, you'd know three times as much as there is to know."—Baltimore American.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

Why He Doubted Her.

"Belinda says her photograph was taken when she wasn't looking, but I don't believe it."

"Why don't you?"

"She has her head on one side and her eyes rolled up."—Indianapolis Journal.

"DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the finest pills I ever used."—D. J. Moore, Millbrook, Ala. They quickly cure all liver and bowel troubles. Howard Gardner.

THE MOUNTAIN LION.

Over bare ridges, through dense thickets gliding,
Stealthy and sure do I follow my prey!
Along the dark canyons, in tangled ferns hiding,
Relentless I trail, and remorseless I slay!
Strong are my sinews and trackless my winding;
Noiseless as dew is the fall of my paws;
Sheathed in the folds of their velvety binding
Tougher and sharper than steel are my claws.
Swift as a sword are my eyes in their seeking,
Piercing the day or the blackest of nights;
Sleek is my muzzle, with blood often reeking;
Ready my teeth for the foeman who fights.
I am a king; dost thou ask me to battle?
Gather thy strength, for I give not a sign!
What! Art thou sounding so soon the death rattle?
I drink to thy health in the blood that was thine!

—Alfred I. Townsend in Overland Monthly.

A LONG SIEGE.

That of Gibraltar Breaks the Record of Modern Times.

Although by no means the most terrible, the last siege of Gibraltar, when the Rock was held by a British garrison under General Elliot against the combined efforts of the Spaniards and French from July 5, 1779, to Nov. 26, 1781, holds the record as the longest important siege of modern times. The fact that every now and again the garrison were able to add to their provisions by successful sorties kept them from succumbing to hunger, but scurvy claimed nearly 1,000 victims.

For weeks together over 6,000 shells were thrown into the town daily. A curious point about this siege is that the governor of Gibraltar, after having done everything he could think of to strengthen the fortifications, issued a proclamation calling on any of the garrison who had any schemes to propose to call on him with them, as he did not wish the Rock to fall when by listening but a few minutes to a private individual it might be saved.

By holding the fortress of Plevna during the Russo-Turkish war from Sept. 7, 1877, to Dec. 10 against the pick of the Russian army the Turkish garrison, under Osman Pasha, accomplished the impossible, according to both military and medical experts; for not only did they defy the besieging force when it numbered nearly 50 to 1 against them, but they lived for 12 weeks practically without food. Yet on Dec. 10, after having eaten their last grain of rye, they sallied out and pluckily tried to cut their way through the Russians.—London Mail.

A Desirable Death.

Children get queer associations of ideas in their heads at times. A little lad on Capitol hill has a playmate of his own age in the son of a poor neighbor. The son of toil visited his richer friend the other day wearing a gorgeous red tie. The son of wealth eyed the tie enviously for awhile and then asked Benny where he got it.

"My mamma dyed it for me for a birthday present," lisped Benny.

After Benny went home Rex played listlessly about for a time and then leaned on his mother's knee, thoughtfully studying the pictures in the fire. "Mamma," he said finally, "Benny's tie was awful pretty, wasn't it?"

"Yes, dear."

"Mamma, won't you kill me a tie like Benny's when I get a birthday?"—Washington Star.

Different Ways.

In these days of religious controversy, conscientious objections to vaccination and reluctance to kissing the Book it is refreshing to recall the broad minded views of John Chinaman on the last named subject as expressed in the court at Singapore. In that colony natives of southern India generally take an oath by killing a fowl, Chinamen by breaking a saucer, Englishmen on the Testament as at home. Our friend John, however, on being asked how he would be sworn replied, "Kill im cock, break im saucer, smell im book—all the same!"—Chambers' Journal.

WISHING

It may be true of virtue that "But to wish more virtue is to gain," but it is not true that wishing for health brings us a step nearer the realization of our wish. Health must be sought and striven for. There are more than half a million people who have found health, each in the same way, and by the same means. That way and means are open to you. If you are suffering with obstinate, lingering cough, bleeding of the lungs, bronchitis, emaciation, weakness, a condition which if neglected or unskilfully treated, leads to consumption, begin at once the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It never fails to help. It perfectly heals ninety-eight out of every hundred who give it a fair and faithful trial.

Sick persons are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely free of all fee or charge. Every letter is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers are sent in plain envelopes, bearing no printing upon them. The experience of Dr. Pierce often enables him to suggest auxiliary treatment specially adapted to the individual case. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"About one year ago I began to be troubled with a very hacking cough and a hurting through my breast so that I could hardly go about or do my house work for myself and husband," writes Mrs. Alice Holton, of St. Albans, Kanawha Co., W. Va. "I let my trouble go on until about eight months ago I got one of Dr. R. V. Pierce's little pamphlets. I learned of a great remedy for such diseases and I wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association in a short time after reading the little book. They soon gave an answer and advised me what to do. I followed their advice and I soon found relief by the use of Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I have used three bottles of it and now feel like a new person."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do not become a necessity to the system they have relieved of accumulations and obstructions.

HE WENT UP HIGHER

HOW A GOVERNMENT CLERK SECURED LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

After Getting the "Royal Word" From the Secretary of His Department He Had Fun With the Division Chief, Who Had Turned Him Down.

"The question of sick and annual leave," said a clerk in an up town department to a reporter, "is one of the utmost importance to government clerks and is one of their most precious privileges. I will tell you of an occurrence in my department which will interest fellow clerks especially.

"A clerk in my division put in an application for a few days' leave in the usual form in writing, to be O. K.'d by the chief of division and sent on its way to the chief clerk of the department. Not hearing from it and the time approaching for his departure he went to his chief and said:

"'Mr. ——, how about my application?'

"'Here it is on my desk. I have not sent it up. It is too early in the year to apply for that length of time, important business or not. You cannot be spared.'

"My friend, who is a little fellow and a diplomat, grasped the situation at once. It happened that he had a personal acquaintance with the secretary, one of those rare instances where a cabinet officer has a personal acquaintance with one of his own clerks. They had met outside of the department, for the little fellow is a member of an influential family in the secretary's own district.

"He bowed and withdrew, but instead of going back to his desk he made a short cut up the corridors toward the secretary's room. Just as he was approaching the latter's private office entrance the secretary, in company with a couple of gentlemen, came out. Observing the clerk and his anxious, inquiring face, he paused, shook him cordially by the hand and exclaimed to his companions:

"'Senator, here is a bright little fellow from my state who is the father of the biggest, cherubic faced baby you ever saw and the husband of the happiest of wife mothers. Look at him blush. Well, what's the matter now?'

"'Why, I want to go away on business for a fortnight, and'—

"'Well, you little rascal, why don't you go? I'll let you—only be sure to come back and don't get lost on the cars.'

"The secretary's hearty laugh, in which the others joined, echoed in the marble tessellated corridors, and they passed on. The 'royal word' had been given.

"That evening at quarter to 4—he left it until last minute purposely—he went to his chief. It was his turn to rub it in.

"'Mr. ——,' he said quietly, 'have you sent up my leave?'

"'I have not,' replied the chief shortly. 'I disposed of that question this morning.'

"'I thought that the secretary granted leave in this department. I was not aware that chiefs of division possessed that authority.' It was war now. Both looked each other unflinchingly in the eye. Then the chief began to smell a little official mouse and resorted to browbeating, as is not unusual under similar circumstances.

"'You are impertinent'—

"'I beg your pardon,' quickly interrupted the clerk, 'for a chief to say to a clerk that he is impertinent imputes a charge against him. I request that you withdraw that remark. It is no impertinence for a clerk to state a rule of the department to his chief, more especially when he appears to have forgotten it or is unaware of its existence. The secretary, and he alone, finally grants or disapproves applications for leave in all departments of the government. I have never before heard this authority questioned'—

"'I don't question it,' hastily interjected the chief, to whose nose the official mousy smell was each moment becoming more acute.

"'By not submitting my application to those whose province it is to decide such questions you certainly do question it and exceed your authority. Approved or disapproved by you, they and not you pass on it finally, and, furthermore, you know it.'

"'I will send it up tomorrow,' said the chief as he climbed down from his high horse as gracefully as the occasion admitted. 'Let me see, you wish to go'—

"'Take your time,' replied my friend pleasantly. 'It is already granted. I have the secretary's personal permission to go provided I do not get lost on the cars. I start tomorrow, and I will try not to get lost. Good-by.'"—Washington Star.

Gems Have Organic Life.

Scientists frequently remind us that gems possess life—organic life. Everybody knows that opals and pearls grow dull when worn by invalids, and it has been lately proved that rubies and the turquoise show the same sensibility. Pearls are most delicate and lose color and brilliancy and actually die. Rings and pins should not be worn by invalids, because the invisible emanations of disease penetrate the microscopic interstices of the gem and kill its life.—Philadelphia Press.

Wigs were in vogue in Rome toward the end of the republic, and so well made that Ovid says, "Nobody could tell if any one else's hair was real or not."

The Mystery of Lady Byron.

W. E. Henley writes vigorously of Lady Byron in The Pall Mall Magazine. In the end they were married by special license; a year and a fortnight after the wedding Lady Byron left her husband never to return to him, and the great heart of the public rose to the occasion. A bride repudiating her groom! A young mother fleeing the embrace of her firstborn's father! Obviously she—young, innocent, high principled, above all, virtuous—was the victim. By specifying nothing and so suggesting the unspeakable, she captured the general imagination and set it working to her sole advantage.

"He is completely lost in the opinion of the world," and "I look upon him as given up to every worthless excess for the rest of his life;" thus Miss Godfrey to her friend, Thomas Moore, and, condemning on hearsay and in advance, the poor soul did but follow her ladyship's suggested lead.

She had but to refrain from speaking indeed, and one of the strongest, bravest spirits of our century was expelled his country. And none knew why she did it, nor how. And why she did it remains a mystery even till this day.

SAVING AN OLD PAINTING.

Ingenious Method by Which It Was Transferred to New Canvas.

"Did you ever hear of transferring an old oil painting to a new canvas?" said a well known art connoisseur of this city. "One would declare at first blush that the thing was absolutely impossible, but I saw it done with a picture over eight feet square, and the operation was a perfect success. The painting to which I refer had been a fine example of the early Italian school, but it had lain forgotten in a garret for many years and had become so incrusted with dirt and grime that it was impossible to distinguish any of the details. Ordinarily it could have been cleaned without trouble, but the damp and mold of two centuries had rotted the canvas until it was ready to fall apart at a touch, and scrubbing was, of course, out of the question.

"That was the condition of things when it was taken in hand by an expert restorer from Belgium who happened to be in the city. The first thing he did was to glue a huge sheet of thick manila paper firmly to the face of the picture. Then he turned it over carefully and picked off every particle of the old decaying canvas, revealing the rear surface of the paint itself. It was a big job and required no end of patience, but the last thread was finally removed, and nothing was left but the fragile shell of pigment. That he covered with the strongest fish glue, and a new sheet of canvas was spread over it and pressed down.

"In a few hours it was perfectly dry, and the painting was as firmly attached to its new foundation as if it had been there from the start. Nothing then remained but to take off the manila paper, which was readily done with hot water. After that the surface was thoroughly cleaned, and the picture is now almost as bright and clear as it was when it left the painter's easel. The owner could hardly believe his eyes. It seemed to him that a veritable miracle had been accomplished."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

MANY LIVES SAVED.

In almost every neighborhood there is some one whose life has been saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, or who has been cured of chronic diarrhoea by the use of that medicine. Such persons make a point of telling of it whenever an opportunity offers, hoping that it may be the means of saving other lives. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

A Trick That Won.

A few weeks ago a pretty little Parisian actress was appearing at a theater in Geneva. On the last night of the play a tall, well dressed man sent in his card and asked permission to thank her personally for the pleasure that her performances had given to him. He entertained her at supper and asked permission to see her off at the station on the following day. He arrived with his groom, who was carrying a tremendous bouquet of flowers.

He told her that he had telegraphed to his brother, who was in Paris and who had influence both with the press and the theatrical managers and that he would meet her on her arrival in Paris. To the astonishment of the actress all this turned out to be true, and she found a magnificent carriage at the station. A fine dinner followed.

The girl was dumb with astonishment. Her host told her that it was all for the sake of his brother, whom he loved dearly, and he spoke pathetically of the beautiful bouquet that she carried and which was made up of flowers culled in the garden of the old homestead. She offered him the bouquet instantly, and he accepted it with a thousand thanks.

Now she has found out why she was treated so well. She had been the means of smuggling watch springs to the value of $10,000 into Paris.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Ford ham.

ANATOMY IN RHYME.

An Easy Way to Memorize the Members of the Body.

A recent writer in an Australian paper teaches anatomy in verse. The rhymes are not all perfect, but they "will serve."

How many bones in the human face?
Fourteen, when they are all in place.
How many bones in the human head?
Eight, my child, as I've often said.
How many bones in the human spine?
Twenty-four, like a clustering vine.
How many bones in the human chest?
Twenty-four ribs and two of the rest.
How many bones in the shoulder bind?
Two in each; one before, one behind.
How many bones in the human arm?
In each arm, one; two in each forearm.
How many bones in the human wrist?
Eight in each, if bone is missed.
How many bones in the palm of the hand?
Five in each of every one's hand.
How many bones in the fingers ten?
Twenty-eight, and by joints they bend.
How many bones in the human hip?
One in each; like a dish they dip.
How many bones in the human thigh?
One in each, and deep they lie.
How many bones in the human knee?
Two in each, we can plainly see.
How many bones in the ankle strong?
Seven in each, but none is long.
How many bones in the ball of the foot?
Five in each, as the palms were put.
How many bones in toes half a score?
Twenty-eight, and there are no more.
And now, if you reckon the bones on a slate,
They count, in a body, two hundred and eight.
Then we have in the human mouth, too,
Teeth, upper and under, thirty and two.
And now and then there's a bone, I think,
That forms on a joint or to fill up a chink,
A sesamoid bone, or wormain, we call,
And now we may rest, for we've told them all.
—Success.

England's Boy Choirs.

Julian Ralph, writing of "The Choir Boys of England," in The Ladies' Home Journal, says: "Small boys are much preferred, for the reason that they develop into manhood later than big, stalwart children, for it is at the coming of manhood that their voices break and they are obliged to stop singing until their adult tones are reached—a matter of years. A boyish treble is as delicate as the bloom on a peach, and its possessor must lead an orderly and innocent life, which is why so many choirs are made up of boys taken from their homes and boarded and taught in church institutions. These, sometimes, are able to sing until they are 17 or 18 years of age, though between 14 and 15 is the usual period when their voices break."

Gold Lined Geese.

According to the United States consul at Chung-King, China, in the department called Yung-pei, Chih-li Ting, gold is found in abundance by washing in the valley near the city. The inhabitants of the neighborhood keep large flocks of geese to work the goldfields for them. When the geese are found to be very heavy, they are killed and their maws emptied of the gold contained therein. A flock of geese is sometimes worth a good deal of money, but geese dressed ready for eating are very cheap indeed—from 15 to 20 cents each.

Usurped a Right.

Professor John Snelling Popkin was professor of Greek at Harvard some years ago, and he was not without a nickname, which he accepted as a matter of course from the students, but, hearing it on one occasion from a man of dapper, jaunty, unacademic aspect, Professor Popkin exclaimed: "What right has that chap to call me 'Old Pop?' He isn't a student of Harvard college."

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for conghs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

VOLKSRAAD AGAIN OPENED.

Kruger Speaks Feelingly, and Says Expenses of the War Can be Borne.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pretoria, May 8—The Volksraad of last year, which broke up unofficially last September was closed formally this morning, and the session of nineteen hundred was inaugurated this afternoon. Kruger, in the opening speech, alluded feelings to the vacancies caused by the death of Joubert, Dekock and others. He expressed gratitude to the Free Staters for their fidelity to their obligations. After alluding to the peace proposals of the presidents of both the republics he said they had proved by legislation and by dealings with Great Britain that it was their desire to preserve peace. "Now that war has broken out," he said, "We will do everything to restore peace." He was pleased that the sympathy of the world was with them. The President said that finances would enable them to bear the great expense of war, as the mines are flourishing.

AN $80,000 FIRE IN CHARLOTTE.

The Bonded Warehouse Goes up With 2000 Bales of Cotton.

Special to the Telegram.

Charlotte, May 8—As a result of this morning's fire $80.000 worth of cotton in the Bonded Warehouse is badly damaged and every bale of the 2000 will have to be entirely picked over.

The fire started in section No. 5 of the warehouse and was discovered about 1:30 this morning. When the fire department arrived they found that the fire was so closely confined that good work in extinguishing it was almost out of the question. Chief Glenn says that could he have obtained dynamite he would have blown out the end wall in order to better reach the fire. The entire warehouse was packed solid from floor to roof and from door to door.

Some work was done in the warehouse yesterday and it is supposed that the fire is to be traced to this.

The loss is fully covered by insurance.

The cotton belonged to the Heath-Reid Co., of this city.

The Sexes

Detroit Journal.

The sexes will never stand on an equal footing while yet there remains anything in the icy glare of any woman's eye to move any man to get up and give her his seat in a street car.

His Share.

Detriot Journal.

"How would you like to have Dewey's job?" asked one of Senator Pullard's constituents.

"Some land office would be more to my taste," replied the eminent statesman.

"Well, I reckon that's so," rejoined the constituent. "You haven't done anything but land offices ever since I've known you."

Unpreparedness.

Detroit Journal.

A courier presses toward the commanding general, his steed foaming conventionally.

"The enemy is in motion," he cries, "but it is impossible to decide whether he advances or retreats!"

Again the sickening unpreparedness of the war office, which should have provided charts to the Boer trouser, enabling the strategists at the front to determine at a glance in which direction any person wearing this garment was proceeding!

A Fight in Duplin.

Mr. L. Turner, a book agent, today called on Massie Cohen, a negro woman who runs a restaurant in Duplin, with a view to selling her a book. Failing in his mission, the two became engaged in a discussion of religion, it is said, when the lie was passed. Mr. Turner was standing in the restaurant door, when he was struck with a chair and knocked down, sustaining slight injuries. The matter will be investigated by the mayor.

An Apology in Order.

Mr. J. W. Scott, one of the aldermen-elect from the Second ward, thinks the Winston Sentinel is due him an apology. In its issue of yesterday the Sentinel stated that Mr. Scott headed the opposition ticket for mayor, when as a matter of fact, he was one of the hardest workers in the Democratic ranks.

It was Mr. L. M. Scott who opposed the Democratic candidate, Bro. Sentinel.

Work that Counted.

One of the most interested participants in yesterday's election was Mr. W. C. Bain, and the Democratic ticket had no heartier supporter. Knowing the election would be close, he brought seven men all the way from Pinehurst, a distance of about 80 miles, in order that they might vote the straight Democratic ticket.

It is the honest devotion of such men that makes Democracy impregnable.

"Dividing the Swag."

New York World.

The Platt-Morgan-Roosevelt appointment of transfer-tax appraisers fully justifies the New York Times' characterization of the performance as "dividing the swag."

All of the appointees were Republican politicians out of a job. The list was appropriately headed by Robert Mazet, who was left at home by the voters of his district for failing to accept Croker's challenge to "call Platt" in the Ramapo matter. For thus saving the boss he now gets his reward. The retired Lexow's brother gets one of the "plums," as does Walter Coggeshall, a son of the notorious Senator who was useful to the boss in his "business" at Albany during the late session.

Gov. Roosevelt secured only one of the appraisers—a small reward for his part in this particular dirty piece of machine spoils-grabbing.

How One Vote Was Made.

An enthusiastic Democrat was unable to vote yesterday for the reason that he had not been a resident of Greensboro long enough to register. He was very solicitous in regard to the fate of the ticket, and remarked to some friends that he would vote, even if he was unable to cast a ballot.

Taking a straight ticket, he went to a friend of the opposition and proposed that, for the fun of the thing, they swap votes. The suggestion struck the independent voter, who agreed to the exchange. He voted the straight Democratic ticket and stood aside to see the Democrat vote the Citizen's ticket.

When the Democrat was not allowed to vote, the supporter of the Citizen's ticket saw through the trick that had been played him, but it was then too late to mend matters.

Got What He Asked For.

Collier's Weekly.

"So you are looking for a position," said the merchant to the youth with high collar and noisy neckie. "What can you do?"

"Oh, any old thing," replied the young man. "Of course I don't expect the junior partnership at the start, but I want to be sure of an early rise."

"Very well," replied the merchant, "I'll make you assistant janitor. You will rise at 4 o'clock every morning and sweep the floors."

Republican Headquarters Moved.

In order to secure more room, the headquarters of the Republican State executive committee were today moved from the second floor of the Southern Loan and Trust Company building to the residence at 337 North Elm street, opposite Mr. E. W. Lyon's.

A stenographer and several clerks will be added to the clerical staff at once. After the adjournment of Congress, Mr. W. S. Hyams, secretary of the executive committee, will be here, He will have charge of the campaign speaking.

For Wading.

Baltimore American.

"What does this nation need?" shouted the impassioned orator. "What does this nation require, if she steps proudly across the Pacific—if she strides boldly across the mighty ocean in her march of trade and freedom? I repeat, what does she need?"

"Rubber boots," suggested the grossly imperialistic person in a rear seat.

MAY SAVE CRAWFORD.

If the Democrats Come Up He May Keep His Seat.

Washington Post.

The party whips of the House will have an interesting contest on hand this week in the case of Representative Crawford and Mr. Pearson, of North Carolina. Two election contests have been decided this session, and it is conceded by both parties that if the Democrats had been on hand, as they ought to have been, their men would never have been unseated. By this carelessness the Republicans have gained four in their majority, but since the contests were decided, Representative King, of Utah, and Representative Lassiter, of Virginia, have taken their seats. The case of Representative Wise of Virginia, hung on a single vote, and Speaker Henderson came to the rescue.

It seems to be pretty sure that if Mr. Crawford retains his seat it will be through the diligence of the Democrats and their presence on the day the vote is taken, and then only by two or three votes. On the other hand, if Mr. Pearson is seated for the ten months of the term that remain, it will be by a very narrow margin, probably not more than two or three votes. Both Mr. Crawford and Mr. Pearson have many friends in Washington, for each has served two terms in Congress.

It is not improbable that this will be the last election contest to be decided this session, as the other North Carolina contest if it is not reported favorably to the Democrat, will be postponed till next session Mr. Crawford, after having fought several political campaigns in the North Carolina district with Mr. Pearson, will have as his Republican opponent in this campaign Maj. J. M. Moody, a Spanish war veteran, who has received the support of the Republicans at primaries already held.

Argument.

Detroit Journal.

The colonel drew a bowie.

"I am, however, open to conviction!" the other hastened to exclaim.

"Very well, suh. In that case, suh, I won't open you any moah! No, suh!" said the colonel, with stately courtesy, and sheathed his cutlery.

One Other Place.
